The Tipton County Foundation has met the nation's highest philanthropic standards for operational quality, integrity, and accountability. The notice comes from the Council on Foundations, a national professional association based in Washington, D.C.

Leaders of the Indiana community foundation field created the Standards in 2000 to aid community foundations in establishing legal, ethical, and effective operational practices that would demonstrate the foundations' transparency and financial responsibility in light of the increased public scrutiny of foundation practices. In addition, Standards were developed to distinguish community foundations from other philanthropic vehicles, build the capacity of community foundations to carry out their missions, and assist the field with self-regulation in a manner viewed positively by the Internal Revenue Service.

In order to achieve Confirmation of Compliance with the National Standards, community foundations must undergo an extensive review of their organizational and financial policies and procedures. The review is performed by trained, experienced community foundation practitioners, coordinated through the Indiana Grantmakers Alliance.
