Homer Foundation Reaches $2 Million In Assets

The Homer Foundation is all about how philanthropic dollars can benefit our community, not how big we are. That doesn’t mean that milestones such as reaching $2 million in assets go unnoticed. So although the Foundation reached this milestone after the close of our fiscal year 2007, we wanted to share this achievement with all of you. As the photograph below highlights, our asset managers, Phil Morris and Ken Castner, took a moment to toast the occasion of hitting $2 million in assets on October 29th.

The Homer Foundation’s asset growth comes in two important ways. The first is through the support of donors who have the desire to give back to their community and who have entrusted the Foundation to build permanent assets, or “social capital,” for the community. The second is through growth, or capital gains, from the Foundation’s investments.

Phil and Ken, both previously licensed securities agents, have provided all asset management for the Foundation since its inception in 1991. Investment return has played an instrumental role in the Foundation’s growth. So join us in celebrating this most recent milestone, and in thanking our investment team, Phil and Ken, for the last 16 years of service to the Homer Foundation.
Annual reports are a place to review the events of the past year: grants, programs, investment success, growth in contributions, creation of new funds, and how we budgeted our resources. It is all interesting, but from the Board’s perspective, settled news.

The Board has a responsibility to assure that the limited philanthropic resources of the Homer area are put to the very best uses. We do not have the wherewithal to fund every grant request; we worry about sustainability and creating a dependency of funding; we fret over the expectation of entitlement; and we are constantly looking at the community to find unaddressed needs. To meet these challenges, the Board must be always taking on some “forward-thinking.” And when it comes to sustainability, which means having the income to balance the annual costs, the operations of the Homer Foundation are of prime concern.

Almost every other community foundation in the world charge fees, usually a small percentage of the collective asset value of the foundation, to cover the costs of money management and administration. The Homer Foundation does not. Our investment management has been performed by a voluntary investment committee that has managed to keep pace, or sometimes out-perform, the benchmark results of others. Administrative costs have been covered by the annual generosity of the Board members, or by dipping into the corpus of our unrestricted fund.

Earlier this year we established the Aquila Fund. The sole purpose of the Aquila Fund (an endowment) is to provide income to cover the administrative costs of the Foundation. We think of it as the community’s opportunity fund, and it would be an appropriate spot to leave bequests and memorials to help maintain the work of the Foundation.

Please remember the Homer Foundation’s Aquila Fund when you make your annual contributions to your favorite charities.

Chair’s Report: Forward-thinking

“The Board has a responsibility to assure that the limited philanthropic resources of the Homer area are put to the very best uses.”
2007 has been another year of growth and development for the Homer Foundation. At the close of our fiscal year 2007, we were within striking distance of a financial milestone, that of reaching $2 million in assets. I am pleased to announce that this goal was met on October 29th. Turn to the photo on page seventeen to catch a glimpse of our asset managers, Ken Castner and Phil Morris, having an impromptu toast of sparkling cider to commemorate the moment.

In 2007 we also welcomed five new funds to the foundation, permanent endowments that will be here to benefit our community and support the causes of interest to the donors... forever: The Aquila Fund, in support of the Homer Foundation, as well as the Health Care Providers Scholarship Fund, A.W. “Bill” Johnson Teacher Education Scholarship Fund, South Peninsula Professional Services Scholarship Fund, and the Rotary Club of Homer Downtown Fund.

The national Council on Foundations offers an annual conference for community foundations. This year board members Connie Alderfer, Ken Castner, and I attended the conference to hone our skills in governance, donor relations, strategic grant making, and a host of other topics. Connie Alderfer is chair of our Distributions Committee and came back energized to guide the Foundation in becoming more strategic in our grant making. Besides grant making, the HF hopes to play a larger role in convening and collaborating around important community issues. A great many of the Foundation’s successes are due to the dedication of the board of trustees, past and present. The board missed the usual group photo for this year’s annual report, but you will find a list of the current board members posted on the first page. The HF also appreciates the support of long time volunteer, Audrey Morris, who assists with administrative duties and helps keep our back office running smoothly. Additional support was provided by our first summer intern, Homer High School student Clinton Edminster. Working with our donors, fund holders, our non-profit partners, and the HF’s board and volunteers to make this community a better place to live is an absolute honor. Thank you all, and here’s to the next year of growth and development for our community foundation!

Notes from the Distributions Committee Chair

Thank you for making 2007 another wonderful year for the Homer Foundation.

To our Grantees: we appreciate the effort you put into writing clear grant requests, especially accurate budgets that explain your program or project. A clear statement of the relationship between your mission and the proposed project is also valued by reviewers. And we are always keen to understand the benefit your project makes to the overall community served by our Foundation.

To our Donors: your generosity creates the Foundation—Thank You! We strive to use your contribution as carefully as you would. We sincerely hope the notes, photos, and summaries you receive from grant recipients bring smiles and joy into your life. If you would enjoy additional feedback from recipients, please join one of the trustees as we make site visits in 2008. This is a powerful opportunity to appreciate the impact our recipient organizations are making.

To the Community at Large: the Homer Foundation eagerly looks for new opportunities to serve this community. Please join us as we undertake an informal needs assessment in 2008. And do introduce us to friends or relatives who are considering a charitable gift. A onetime donation or a bequest, large and small—each gift is a precious contribution to building the best community foundation in Alaska!
Contributions

Donating to the Homer Foundation is easy. Contributions in any amount may be directed towards the Homer Foundation Unrestricted Fund to help us grow and expand our support of the communities on the southern Kenai Peninsula, or directed to any of the funds managed by the Foundation. With a minimum donation of $10,000, you may choose to create your own named fund.

Listed here are some of the ways a donor can create a permanent legacy for our community, either during their lifetime, or through a bequest... Contributions are tax-deductible to the extent allowed by law, for the calendar year in which they are made. The Foundation can receive and administer the broadest range of charitable gifts.

Ways of Giving

Cash Gifts
Cash is the simplest way to contribute to or through the Homer Foundation. Gifts of cash can be made directly to the Foundation via cash or check or, if you prefer, for a small fee, via credit card on our web site at www.homerfund.org.

Non-Cash Gifts
Appreciated property such as real estate, publicly traded stocks, art work, or other investments can cause a significant capital gains tax liability at the time of sale. When these assets are donated to the Homer Foundation, the tax is avoided, and the proceeds will generate dividends and interest to meet charitable community needs. In addition, the Homer Foundation can accept planned giving vehicles such as charitable lead and remainder trusts, charitable gift annuities, life insurance policies, and retirement plans. The Pension Reform Act of 2006, known as H.R. 4, allows for the charitable rollover of an IRA for individuals 70 1/2 years of age, or older, for tax years 2006 and 2007.

Private Foundations
A community foundation can achieve the same philanthropic goals as a private foundation, but without the expenses and management structure. If you are considering starting a private foundation, you may want to consider working under the umbrella of a community foundation, you may receive tax benefits superior to those of a private foundation, and eliminate the bookkeeping. We encourage you to review your financial plans with your professional advisor.

Bequests
A bequest to the Homer Foundation is simple to include in your will, and we are happy to provide sample language for you or your legal counsel. The Foundation may be remembered in a will in several ways, including: as a residual beneficiary of an estate, as a recipient of the assets of a stated bequest, or as the ultimate recipient of a charitable remainder trust.

The Foundation accepts most planned giving vehicles, including some that are designed to provide you with income during your lifetime, reduce taxes, and leave a part or the remainder of your estate to charity. If you plan to leave a planned gift to the Foundation, be sure to let us know. We want to make sure to have your wishes on record to properly carry them out after your lifetime.

If you are considering a planned gift to the Foundation and do not already have an estate planning advisor to assist you in exploring your giving options, we can provide an initial phone consultation with a planned giving professional through our partnership with the Foraker Group, at no cost to you.

The Homer Foundation: Connecting Community 2007 Annual Report
Investment Committee Report: Phil Morris

Those of you who have followed our investment themes for the last few years know that we have been focused on “things” not “paper.” During fiscal 2007, ending on June 30, our overall investment return was 10.7%. Although this was a solid return, it was not up to our performance in recent years. This lower performance can be attributed to the yearlong consolidation in the areas of our focus.

As we persevered through the winter and spring, our investments languished as the markets rallied in all things “paper.” Derivatives of all sorts flourished. By the close of our fiscal year, we were fortunate to eke out any gain at all. Our midterm focus on energy and metals saved the day and we closed out the year on a positive note.

Fiscal 2008 is off to a strong start in our chosen areas. The midsummer demise of structured products and sub prime loans led to a Federal Reserve stimulation of the money supply of unprecedented proportions. We believe we are on the right track and will continue to emphasize investment in “things,” for clearly now inflation, in ever-increasing proportions, has been built into the system. All markets will inexorably be driven higher until some event occurs to crash the system. What and when this might occur is the question.

We prefer to continue to focus on energy and metals as the dollar, in fact all fiat currencies, weakens relative to the ultimate currency. Long bond rates are destined to eventually soar, so there will be few safe places to hide in the coming inflationary spiral.

Ben Bernanke is committed to avoid the mistakes made by the FED in 1938, and is liquefying everything in sight. We can count on all fiat currencies, weakens relative to the ultimate currency. Long bond rates are destined to eventually soar, so there will be few safe places to hide in the coming inflationary spiral.

The FH’s investment managers continue to hold monthly brown bag meetings to discuss Foundation investments and their contrary outlook on profit potential. The meetings are open to the public and are held at noon on the first Friday of each month, September through May. Call 235-0541 for more information.

Spreading the word about the YAC:

During spring break last year, Patrick Schneider, Clinton Edminster, and HF Director Joy Steward flew down to Juneau to help the Juneau Foundation set up a YAC. During their visit Patrick and Clinton gave two presentations, the first of which was held at the local high school. Twelve teenagers showed up at the meeting, and after sharing pizza and soda, Patrick and Clinton dove into their first PowerPoint presentation. Their presentation addressed some of the questions the students had about youth philanthropy and setting up a youth advisory committee. Clinton and Patrick shared the importance of a good schedule and a good advisor. They discussed the need for youth to have a say in community issues and community-based philanthropy, and shared some of the experiences they had absorbed from being involved as a YAC for the past three years.

The next day Patrick and Clinton gave a presentation to the Juneau Foundation board of directors. Their presentation included the YAC PowerPoint and allowed time for questions and answers. Juneau has since made a commitment to starting a YAC of their own.

The visit to Juneau wasn’t all hard work. While there, Patrick, Clinton, and Joy visited Rep. Paul Seaton at the Capital, went to the Juneau Symphony, watched the amazing Juneau Douglas High School drill team, and hiked the Mendenhall Glacier. It was really an eye-opening experience that will be long remembered by the three YAC adventurers.

Supporting the Community:

Back in Homer, YAC’s focus has been on assessing youth issues, building long term donor relationships, and surpassing our fund-raising goals. We believe that long term donor relationships are beneficial to our cause, as well as our wonderful donors. Every three years YAC surveys the youth of Homer to figure out what are the biggest issues Homer’s youth have to face. YAC then uses this information to make better decisions on which programs they should fund.

This year we distributed our survey at the Rotary Club of Homer Downtown’s Youth Fair. YAC had a booth and we educated the public about what we do. We also handed out pens, pamphlets, and surveys. The fair was a great success with chess games, karaoke, food, and information for kids on how to live a safe and healthy life. We received 60 completed surveys and have considered these responses when creating our 2008 RFP.

For the last four years, Bonnie Jason has been our YAC advisor, but since YAC is a Youth Advisory Committee, it makes sense to have youth leadership. High school senior Reba Temple accepted the role as YAC High Chairwoman, and everyone in YAC agrees that she is doing a great job. Bonnie Jason, Wendy Jason, and Joy Steward are still available to advise us, but YAC feels that taking a stronger leadership role will empower us in meeting the needs of Homer’s Youth.
