WELCOME

In times like these, family, friends, and community are even more important than they are when we feel more secure about the world and our places in it. At The New York Community Trust, we are fortunate to have a very caring community—our generous donors, past and present; the staff of the City's extraordinary nonprofits; our foundation colleagues; and our government associates. All of them are trying to dig a little bit deeper and work a lot harder to help the many New Yorkers who are suffering through the recession.

Since 1924, The Trust has helped make donors' charitable dreams come true by funding the nonprofits that make our city a vital and secure place. We ended 2008 with assets of $1.5 billion in nearly 2,000 charitable funds, and made grants totaling $168 million. Whether you're giving today, or endowing a fund to support a cause or solve problems we can't now imagine, The Trust makes it easy to be a philanthropist. We invite you to learn about us and how to join our family of donors.

As we write this message, the Dow is up 200 points. But it's only 2:30, and we know better than to guess where it will close.

We've all lived with volatility and uncertainty since last October and it's been unsettling, to say the least. Even if the events were not so scary, the speed at which they happen is.

So at The Trust, we took a deep breath, continued to work with donors, and made grants—and surveyed where we were. Last July, our board spent a full day looking at our grantmaking priorities. We brought in the deputy director of the City Planning Department's Population Division. Dr. Peter Lobo had us enthralled. Armed with charts, graphs, and tables, he gave us a vivid demographic picture of who we are and what we're likely to look like in the years ahead. All vital information if we are to plan for the City's future and the increasing demand for housing, health care, and schools. We concluded the meeting confident that we were working on the right issues, and added adult literacy, a more intense focus on troubled neighborhoods, and planning to harness the skills of retiring boomers to tackle a range of community problems.

The Dow was at 11,000—which we'd all be grateful for today—but the slide downward had begun and our discussions were already colored by the prospect of bad times. But because severe economic distress has characterized the lives of too many New Yorkers for too many years, we have long used the money entrusted to us by generations of other New Yorkers to help expand our middle class. In 2008, we continued to make grants to help poor families manage their money and deal with subprime mortgages and credit card debt. We helped nonprofits become more efficient, get a handle on their expenses, and prepare to do more with less. We made grants to rein in the costs of Medicaid while providing better health care, and grants to protect affordable housing. We supported efforts of employers and nonprofit job developers to teach people marketable skills that are needed by business, and helped public school teachers become more effective.

The bulk of the money that supports our discretionary grant program (grants that are not suggested by our donor-advisors) come from funds that were set up by New Yorkers to build an endowment for future generations. Many donors, knowing they couldn't predict the problems their successors would face, placed no restrictions on their contributions, and others asked us to support issues they were concerned about. Combined with the generosity of our donor-advisors, The Trust is able to support a range of charitable activities that help our neighbors and our city.

We understand that many of us are feeling financially vulnerable. But naming The Trust in your will or through a deferred giving plan won't cost you a penny today.

Next year, one of the two names at the bottom of this message will have changed. Having served for five years as our distinguished chairman, Sam Polk, is stepping down. We are grateful that he will remain on the board.

In these bewildering times, we hope this report, and the stories about our grantees, will give you hope and faith in our city.

A POSTSCRIPT FROM OUR CHAIRMAN

This year marks the end of my term as chairman. Charlynn Goins, who has been an active member of our board since 2002 and also engaged in the civic affairs of our city, will succeed me. The Trust is very fortunate to have Charlynn and our outstanding president and staff to guide us during these challenging times.

GIVING

“Those of us who have looked to the self-interest of lending institutions to protect shareholders’ equity are in a state of shocked disbelief.”

Alan Greenspan, former Federal Reserve chairman, 10/13/08.

When housing prices started to collapse all over the country, New York real estate continued its climb into the stratosphere. We seemed to be protected from the havoc, saved by our tiny, overbuilt geography, and fueled by Wall Street bonuses and hedge fund profits.

So can New Yorkers be forgiven for being as stunned as Mr. Greenspan to find ourselves in the epicenter of the Great Recession?

Like most foundations, The New York Community Trust is very dependent on the stock market. In good times, our assets increase in value, our donors become even more generous, and more people set up charitable funds.

So it’s a good thing that we follow Mel Brooks’s advice from the 1970 (another time of serious recession) movie The 12 Chairs: “Hope for the best, expect the worst . . .”

That means years of running lean even in good times, steadily and prudently building operating reserves, and preparing three budgets annually—one for good times, one for normal times, and one for bad times. Even so, our portfolio took a hit in 2008 and fewer people set up funds.

The Trust responded to, and even anticipated, tough times, helping individuals, families, nonprofits, and businesses manage money more wisely. You’ll read about offering financial counseling and legal representation to clients referred by community groups and legal services offices in Brooklyn. It also set up an advisory group to explore advocacy campaigns on bankruptcy procedures, tax credit policies, and a host of other financial policy matters that affect working-poor families.

some of those efforts in the pages that follow. And we want to remind you that this is but a part of the $168 million in grants we made in 2008.

WHEN THE COURTS COME CALLING

Wage garnishments, bankruptcies, tax disputes—the kinds of financial problems that need a lawyer. But legal fees are out of reach for many low-income workers, and federally funded legal service offices are overwhelmed with cases involving housing, public benefits, and family law. These workers need free and low-cost legal representation, complemented by financial counseling and training, to help resolve their financial problems.

The Financial Clinic was established in 2005 as a program of a Brooklyn credit union, employing an attorney along with volunteer accountants and law students to help credit union members. The Clinic soon spun off and began

In 2007, the Clinic began working with dozens of community groups in low-income neighborhoods throughout the City. It ran financial literacy workshops and hired staff, counseling more than 200 people, a third of whom were represented in cases that, together, won more than $125,000 in alleviated tax debt and abated money judgments. It instituted a system for tracking client results by measuring factors such as increased savings, new bank accounts, direct deposits, and improved credit scores. Last year, the Clinic, along with the Community Service Society, trained dozens of older adult volunteers to counsel low-wage workers and use the tracking system to make sure they were getting results. Its innovative mix of services is helping the working-poor resolve personal financial problems, a need that is likely to intensify as the economy continues to decline.

Ever since the credit card industry was deregulated in the late 1990s, a lot of elderly and disabled people have amassed major debt, often to pay medical and home repair bills. Because most of them have their Social Security and pension checks (which legally can't be garnished) deposited directly into their bank accounts, it's become easy for predatory debt collectors to use technology to match debtors and bank accounts. Other low-income credit card holders are the victims of collection agencies, who buy debt in bulk on the Internet at a fraction of their face value. When these debtors are taken to court, the litigation is riddled with gross errors, identity theft, and wrong addresses, resulting in 60 percent of defendants failing to answer summonses.

South Brooklyn Legal Services has been helping elderly and poor people threatened with foreclosure, a program it started 10 years ago with a Trust grant. Recently, it began protecting Social Security recipients from illegal debt collection and training lawyers and advocates at other agencies. The Legal Aid Society’s Queens Civil Practice Unit is offering similar services to low-income Queens residents, and also takes on cases where a pattern of improper practices can be challenged under the Fair Debt Practices Act.

Sixty-year-old Ronald Coote, a former middle-manager at a supermarket, went on Social Security disability after a fall at work. Last October, he tried to withdraw the remnants of his last $800 Social Security check—his only income—from an ATM, only to discover that his bank account was frozen by a creditor. The creditor refused to release the account unless Mr. Coote paid some money. When Mr. Coote protested that his next Social Security check would be sent electronically into the frozen account, the creditor replied “that’s your problem.”

“I was really stressed out and nervous,” recalls Mr. Coote. “I had no money for food, never mind rent which was soon due. The creditor didn’t care that I was on disability.” Luckily, Mr. Coote found Johnson Tyler at South Brooklyn Legal Services. Mr. Tyler threatened to file a Fair Debt Collection Practices Act suit and got the law firm to release the account. “It’s a typical creditor ploy,” said Mr. Tyler. “Unless you know your rights, the creditor wins by bullying.” Mr. Tyler has trained other advocates on how to defeat illegal creditor practices. He also is challenging illegal debt collection practices involving child support and student loans.

WHEN THE HELPERS NEED HELP

Banks and other mainstream financial institutions often merge in order to realize savings. But achieving economies of scale for credit unions serving poor communities is challenging. Ironically, the larger and more successful community development credit unions become, the greater their financial recordkeeping expenses. Many must hire outside accounting consultants at great cost in order to comply with federal regulations.

The New York City Financial Network Action Consortium provides financial and technical support for the City’s premier community development credit unions. Its current members hold $57 million in assets and have an estimated 25,000 members. With a shared loan officer, more than $1 million in small business loans were made on behalf of Consortium members. A shared certified public accountant provides accounting services.

Last year, the Consortium continued to help members reduce costs, improve recordkeeping, and comply with regulations. The accountant began to explore ways to make the credit unions’ data processing systems more compatible, with the long-term goal of instituting centralized functions in that area as well. By reducing one of the biggest expenses of community development credit unions, the Consortium helps them achieve long-term sustainability, strengthening their capacity to help low-income communities.

With nonprofits all over the City feeling the pinch of declining donations and government funding, layoffs and other cuts in services have become the order of the day—at a time when demand for their help is skyrocketing. Started several years ago with the aid of a Trust grant, ReServe Elder Services places retired professionals with agencies that need them. Unlike most retiree volunteer programs, ReServe pays stipends ranging from minimum wage to $10 an hour.

Cyril Brosnan has a Ph.D. in economics and spent most of his working life in health care. And he’s been an active volunteer for most of his career. In short, he’s a volunteer recruiter’s dream. But he was no longer willing to work for free. He believes that organizations fail to take seriously any effort by someone who works for nothing.

Mr. Brosnan joined ReServe in 2007 and was soon assigned to the New York Academy of Medicine, where he manages forums, focus groups, and roundtable discussions—sometimes with several hundred seniors at a time—to find out how they are faring in their neighborhoods. He and his team are helping to organize a summit with New York officials, advocating for a commission to ensure that seniors' concerns are addressed. Young bureaucrats, Brosnan argues, should never presume to know what seniors want or need, nor should they disregard those needs. "I'm still wishing to be an instrument of change," he says.

WHEN THE RISKS ARE TOO HIGH

As we all have learned, when businesses fail to take risk into account, the impact on their profitability can be enormous. Toxic chemicals pose huge risks to the health of consumers—and to the bottom lines of manufacturers and retailers.

Organized in 2004, the Investor Environmental Health Network uses the clout of institutional investors, who collectively control 60 percent of the 1,000 largest U.S. companies, to speed corporate use of safer chemicals. Its data on toxic chemicals in cosmetics, toys, pet food, toothpaste, and other consumer products, and the related risks they pose to shareholders, have been covered in business journals. Its shareholder resolutions on toxic chemicals have resulted in companies removing products that contain suspicious chemicals.

The Network also works with Institutional Shareholder Services, the largest proxy voting advisory service in the nation, on updating its proxy voting guidelines for toxic chemicals, and has convinced institutional shareholders to file resolutions that call on retailers to take responsibility for the products they sell. Mary Tortorice, vice president and deputy general counsel for Sears Holdings, says, "The Network and the Center for Health, Environment and Justice's PVC Campaign (another Trust grantee) together have played an important role in working with Sears Holdings (Sears and Kmart) to develop and implement a policy to phase out PVC packaging and products. The investors' shareholder resolution brought this to the attention of our senior management, and when the resolution was withdrawn in favor of a collaborative dialogue, they provided substantial amounts of useful information about what other companies were doing. We're now identifying safer, more sustainable and cost-effective alternatives to PVC, and encouraging vendors to reduce or eliminate their use of PVC in merchandise and packaging."

The New York Industrial Retention Network works to strengthen the City's small manufacturing businesses. But nearly 7,000 of these manufacturers work out of old buildings and warehouses that have antiquated heating and cooling systems, poor insulation, and obsolete electrical systems. When coupled with rising energy prices, they threaten the viability of these businesses. A grant from the U.S. Department of Energy is providing attractive financing for small companies to buy energy and water conservation equipment to lower their operating costs. Our grant will help the Network design and set up a loan program, help manufacturers with energy audits, and advise them on equipment purchase—and ultimately save jobs.

WHEN WE NEED COMMUNITY

In 1854, President Abraham Lincoln said: "The legitimate object of government is to do for a community of people whatever they need to have done but can not do at all, or can not so well do, for themselves." That is also a legitimate object of The Trust—but never more than during bad times. We are always mindful that a foundation like The Trust—even in the flush of times—can fund only a fraction of what needs to be done. But again and again we are impressed by the commitment of nonprofits to keep going in the face of great odds. We invite you to join us in supporting them.

Addabbo Family Health Center, to improve care for patients with diabetes and heart disease in Queens.

Biomedical Research

New Jersey Medical School, to study a strain of drug-resistant bacteria in three New York City hospitals.

International AIDS Vaccine Initiative, for research to develop an AIDS vaccine.

HIV/AIDS

Love Heals, for an online HIV prevention program for girls and young women of color.

Planned Parenthood of New York, for a series of public outreach efforts targeted at girls and young women that talks frankly about HIV and other STDs and emphasizes the importance of getting tested.

PHILANTHROPY AND SPECIAL PROJECTS

NY Regional Association of Grantmakers, to map the racial and ethnic composition of the local philanthropic and nonprofit sectors.

NYCharities.org, to expand an online charitable giving service for New York City nonprofits.

The Trust makes grants in four general areas: Children, Youth, and Families; Community Development and the Environment; Education, Arts, and Human Justice; and Health and People with Special Needs. We are committed to sticking with significant issues that may not lend themselves to quick or easy solutions, while remaining open to projects that tackle emerging problems and to organizations that may be new to us.

Grants are made primarily to nonprofit organizations located in the five boroughs of New York City. Our suburban divisions handle grants on Long Island and in Westchester (page 26). Grants to programs outside our area generally are from funds designated for specific charities or that have been made at the suggestion of living donors.

Applicants should begin by requesting our “Guidelines for Grant Applicants” and one or more of the four brochures that describe in detail each of our grantmaking areas. We also suggest that you request copies of our grants newsletter, published five times a year, to get a sense of the kinds of projects we currently fund. Please call our receptionist at (212) 686-0010, ext. 0, or visit our Web site, www.nycommunitytrust.org.

If, after you have read our guidelines, you believe that your proposed project meets our criteria, send us a cover letter along with a completed application form (enclosed with the guidelines), and a copy of the proposal—not more than 10 pages plus appendices. Include in your letter a brief summary of the proposal, the amount requested, and the results expected. We do not accept proposals sent by fax or e-mail.

Please note that we don't make grants to individuals and rarely for endowments, building campaigns, deficit financing, films, general operating support, or religious purposes.

We have no specific submission deadlines. Our Distribution Committee meets to consider grants five times annually, and grant applications are accepted throughout the year.

We'll let you know within two weeks that we have received your material. During the review process, Trust staff will analyze your proposal, determine if and how it fits into our grantmaking program, and check to see if there is money available in an appropriate fund. We'll get in touch with you if we have further questions or need more information.

The Trust welcomes your application, but because we can't fund every proposal submitted to us, we urge you to send yours to several other funders as well.

The
New York
Community Trust offers

donors with every kind of philanthropic interest an easy and flexible way to accomplish their charitable objectives and receive the maximum tax deduction allowed by law.

TYPES OF FUNDS

An unrestricted fund is a good option for donors who want to be assured that their gift will always be used to meet vital needs and improve the quality of life in the New York metropolitan area. Our staff is expert in identifying community needs and the nonprofits best equipped to meet them.

In a field-of-interest fund, charitable giving is focused on issues of concern to the donor, such as child and family welfare, youth, education, human justice, conservation, or health policy. The Trust makes grants that meet current needs in the chosen fields. Field-of-interest funds can also be established to be advised by the donor.

A donor-advised fund is an unrestricted fund legally, but the donor recommends the organizations to receive grants. Although we cannot, by law, be bound by these recommendations, we take them very seriously and approve grants to recommended nonprofits that meet charitable standards for programmatic and financial soundness.

A designated fund is for donors who want to support specific organizations but recognize that the world may change. They establish a designated fund in The Trust rather than leave it directly to the charity to assure that their gift remains relevant over time and responsive to changing circumstances. (See page 20 for an explanation of the variance power.)

SETTING UP THE FUND

Each donor establishes a fund with a minimum of $5,000. Donors first decide what they want to accomplish with their philanthropy; our staff is happy to help clarify and refine goals. They then choose the name of the fund, typically using their own names or the names of individuals to be honored or memorialized. Donors who prefer anonymity can choose a general name.

There are at least three ways to establish a fund with us.

Give Now: You can set up a fund to support charities during your lifetime and endow it to continue your philanthropy for future generations. Many of our donors regularly add money to the funds they have established.

Give Later: Donors can set up funds through deferred-giving arrangements. A key feature of many estate plans is a tax advantage to you now for the commitment of a charitable gift later. Charitable Remainder Trusts, Charitable Lead Trusts, and gifts of life insurance or retirement plan assets can all be used.

Wills: After providing for personal bequests, you may include provisions for setting up a fund with us or adding to one you already have here. You will save estate taxes and ensure that the charitable work you care about will be continued.

TYPES OF ASSETS

Funds may be established with the following: cash, securities traded on major exchanges, closely held stock, mutual fund shares, retirement plan assets, real estate, interests in limited partnerships, and literature copyrights. For 2009, individuals who are age 70 and older can contribute up to $100,000 from their IRAs directly to charity without paying income tax on the distribution.

initially came to The Trust for my personal convenience,” says Martin Brownstein, “but over time I found much more.” Dr.

Brownstein, a graduate of Harvard College and the Albert Einstein College of Medicine, practiced dermatopathology for more than 30 years in his private laboratory.

“For years I made grant suggestions to my donor-advised fund, and The Trust wrote the checks and took care of the tax reporting. Occasionally, one of my recommendations was rejected, but when I learned the reasons for the rejections and the criteria used by The Trust, I knew I was in the right place.

“I had some questions about the Brownstein Family Fund in The New York Community Trust and I phoned The Trust to make an appointment for a visit. Upon entering the waiting room, I saw biographical sketches of some past Trust donors, from the well-known to the obscure, and some born as early as the 1870s. After reading a few of them, it was clear that these were my kind of people; these were my role models.

“Gay Young, my designated guide, answered all my questions. I then told her how pleased I was with my experience with The Trust. I said I felt a little guilty that The Trust had thus far contributed more to me than I had contributed to The Trust. She responded that even though The Trust did not benefit directly, they were pleased to help me accomplish my charitable goals. It was immediately clear that her concept of charity was the same as mine, and the same as that of the people in the brochures. And then it continued; as she introduced me to other members of the staff, I felt more and more surrounded by people like those in the brochures.

“I then began to learn more about The Trust’s discretionary grant program and the community issues that were not in my philanthropic portfolio, but that I cared about. I was intrigued by all four of the broad program categories and the kinds of projects The Trust supports. I have a grandson with a learning disability, so I was especially interested in other children with similar problems. But I was also moved by organizations doing something about discrimination against Latinos and gay children, and many other issues. I have already provided for my family, so I have added a bequest to the Brownstein Family Fund in my will. I am confident The Trust will carry out my philanthropy for many, many years. I am proud that the Brownstein Family Fund was founded by my late father in 1995, and that I have had the privilege of being able to continue it.”

Pat Caldwell is very busy these days. She's a partner in an investment bank that helps troubled companies restructure.

She's also a person for whom charity literally began at home. "It was just assumed that you gave back. I feel almost selfish about it because I always get back so much more than I give."

Ms. Caldwell speaks with animation about the students she supports through scholarships at Virginia Tech, her alma mater. "I want students who are intrigued by math and science—as I was—to be able to pursue those interests. And it's a joy to visit them. They're smart and enthusiastic and want to change the world. They never fail to inspire me."

And she inspires others. She gives both time and money, serving on several nonprofit boards, including two agencies in New York that provide services to the elderly—FRIA (Friends and Relatives of Institutionalized Aged) and SPOP (New York Service Program for Older People.)

Several years ago, Ms. Caldwell met our director of donor relations at a nonprofit seminar they were both attending and learned about The Trust. "I had just sold a business and it seemed like the logical time to set up a charitable fund. I was doing a lot of my giving outside of New York, but now felt I wanted to become more involved in the City. I was especially drawn to the word 'community' in The Trust's name."

Ms. Caldwell gives new meaning to "strategic philanthropy." "For now, I do most of my charity out of my checkbook. And while I recommend grants from my donor-advised fund, I only spend the income. I'm planning for the time when I'm no longer working, when I'm no longer earning money. By endowing my fund now, I'll be able to maintain my level of support for the charities I care about."

We are glad to discuss proposed contributions with you. We cannot accept assets that are not readily convertible for the financial benefit of charity or that carry unusual potential liability.

FUND ADMINISTRATION AND FEES

A fund established with our organization may be held in trust with one of our 12 trustees (see page 28), or it may be held by Community Funds, Inc., our not-for-profit corporation. Both operate as The New York Community Trust with a single governing body. If a fund is set up in trust, the bank handles the investments. If it is set up in Community Funds, our distinguished Investment Committee oversees the performance of the outside portfolio managers. The determining factor is the inclination of the donor. The service we provide is the same.

The administrative fee charged to our funds is competitive. Please visit our Web site, www.nycommunitytrust.org, How to Start Giving, to see our current fees.

Funds that are held in trust are also charged a trustee's fee set by the bank. It may be negotiated between the bank and the donor at the inception of the fund, and varies from bank to bank.

The Internal Revenue Service has classified The New York Community Trust and its affiliate, Community Funds, Inc., as "tax exempt" under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code; as a "publicly supported" organization under Section 170b(1)(A)(vi); and as "not a private foundation" under Section 509(a)(1). This status ensures donors the maximum tax benefit allowed by law. The Long Island Community Foundation and the Westchester Community Foundation (described on page 26) are divisions of Community Funds.

A FUND IN THE TRUST, A PRIVATE FOUNDATION—OR BOTH?

A fund in The Trust provides a very attractive alternative to establishing a private foundation. We are a public charity with the attendant tax advantages. A full-time professional staff takes care of all the administrative and grantmaking activities, eliminating the need to set up a separate institution, formulate policies, file innumerable forms, and monitor the status of grant recipients. Establishing a private foundation can take months and be costly; with The Trust, the legal apparatus is already in place, and creating a fund can take less than a day.

For some people, a private foundation is the preferred option, but many donors with private foundations also have funds with us. Often, the donor uses a fund here to support causes and nonprofits that are outside the general focus of the private foundation. And almost all want to increase the impact of their philanthropy by joining other generous New Yorkers who care about the City.

We also offer substantial advantages over most commercial donor-advised funds: in-depth knowledge of the nonprofit community, the capacity to accept unusual gifts, smaller minimums, and lower fees. Because our business is philanthropy, we can help make sure that your money makes a difference.

FURTHER INFORMATION

The New York Community Trust is happy to work with you or with your lawyer, trust officer, or other financial advisor.

We invite you to get in touch with us at any time. Call our general counsel Jane L. Wilton (Ext. 379), Robert V. Edgar (Ext. 373), or Gay Young (Ext. 377) in our Donor Relations Department at 212-686-0010.

Establishing a fund in The New York Community Trust for your client is a relatively straightforward process. Our comprehensive booklet, Creating a Fund Here: Suggested Words and Procedures, provides all the relevant information: The Trust's tax classification letter, descriptive material on the different types of funds, and suggested language to help you draft instruments to provide for gifts to our organization. Call us to receive a copy or visit us online, at <http://nycommunitytrust.org>.

Donors have the option of setting up funds in The New York Community Trust with a bank as trustee or in our not-for-profit corporate affiliate, Community Funds, Inc. The organizations share a governing board and file a single tax return with the IRS.

THREE IMPORTANT FACTS

We are unable to accept a fund unless its terms have been reviewed by us and found acceptable. It is particularly helpful if we review the language before the instrument is executed to ensure that we can meet the donor's purpose. For funds held in trust as part of The New York Community Trust, a co-trustee is not permitted.

All our funds enjoy an important advantage: If a change of circumstances makes literal compliance with the terms of the gift instrument "unnecessary, undesirable, impractical, or impossible," our governing body through its variance power, is able to vary them. Donors are assured that their gifts will never become obsolete; they will remain useful to the community in perpetuity.

CREATING A FUND IN THE NEW YORK COMMUNITY TRUST

The Resolution and Declaration of Trust Creating “The New York Community Trust” (the R&D) is a complete trust instrument. It sets out in detail the powers and duties of the Trustee Bank and the Distribution Committee. In order to establish a fund in The Trust, the founding document—whether for a bequest or a gift during lifetime—must incorporate the R&D by reference.

An advantage of The New York Community Trust is that it is not a private foundation subject to certain requirements, and the separate funds that constitute The New York Community Trust are component funds of a public charity, not private foundations. It is important, therefore, that an instrument designed to create a new component fund in The Trust adhere strictly to the provisions of the R&D; please call us for a copy.

CREATING A FUND IN COMMUNITY FUNDS, INC.

Community Funds, Inc. is a New York State not-for-profit corporation. As with a fund in The New York Community Trust, a fund established in Community Funds becomes part of a publicly supported organization, and is not regarded as a private foundation. The fund is held and administered pursuant to the provisions of the New York Not-for-Profit Corporation Law. Please call us for a copy of the Certificate of Incorporation and By-Laws of Community Funds.

CREATING A FUND IN OUR LONG ISLAND OR WESTCHESTER DIVISION

Because the Long Island Community Foundation and the Westchester Community Foundation are divisions of Community Funds, donors have the same options described above.

The governing body consists of 12 members who serve as the Distribution Committee of The New York Community Trust and as the Board of Directors of Community Funds, Inc. It is their responsibility to oversee our organization's operations and grantmaking.

Six members are nominated by civic authorities representing the public: one by the Mayor of the City of New York; one by the Chief Judge of the United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit; one by the Chairman of the Partnership for New York City and Chamber of Commerce; one by the Chairman of Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts; one by the President of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York; and one by the President of the New York Academy of Medicine. The Trustees' Committee (see p. 28) nominates five members, and the President of The Trust is a member by reason of office.

Members serve without compensation. They are selected for their judgment, integrity, and understanding of philanthropic needs. The Committee meets every two months throughout the year; subcommittees meet on a regular basis.

With the belief that grantmaking is most effective when it is done locally, The Trust established divisions that reach out to the greater metropolitan area: the Westchester Community Foundation, founded in 1975, and the Long Island Community Foundation, founded in 1978.

Each is guided by a board of advisors composed of local community leaders and staffed by people expert in grantmaking and donor service. As part of The Trust, Long Island and Westchester enjoy our investment management, legal, financial, and accounting services.

For donors who wish to contribute to charities in these communities, our suburban divisions combine sensitivity to local concerns with the economies of scale and expertise of a large organization.

Funds in each division are listed on pages 49-51.

In 1923, the banks of New York City envisioned the type of philanthropic organization that could best meet the changing needs of this community.

It would be set up to give wealthy people and those of moderate means an equal opportunity to accomplish their philanthropy within a flexible framework. The charitable funds they created would be permanently secure. The organization's governing body—an impartial and changing committee of New York citizens chosen for their understanding of philanthropic needs—would oversee the selection of charitable beneficiaries.

This was the beginning of The New York Community Trust. Today twelve banks and trust companies have adopted the "Resolution and Declaration of Trust Creating The New York Community Trust." The representatives of these financial institutions constitute the Trustees' Committee, and each bank is authorized to receive funds in trust for The New York Community Trust.

Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements

(1) Organization

The New York Community Trust and Community Funds, Inc. (including its Long Island and Westchester Divisions) (The Trust) are community foundations created to build permanent charitable endowments for the areas they serve. The Trust, as the consolidated foundations are hereinafter referred to, is tax exempt under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code (the Code) and has been determined not to be a private foundation under Section 509(a)(1) of the Code. The Trust administers nearly 2,000 individual charitable funds, each established with an instrument of gift describing either the general or specific purposes for which grants are to be made, usually from income only, but in some cases from principal.

(2) Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Accounting standards provide that if the governing body of an organization has the ability to remove a donor restriction, the contributions should be classified as unrestricted net assets. However, under New York State law and The Trust's governing instruments, the assets are held as endowment funds until such time (if ever) as the governing body deems it prudent and appropriate to expend some part of the principal or appreciation. Accordingly, the consolidated financial statements classify all net assets as unrestricted, except for those net assets restricted for the September 11th Fund, but segregate the portion that is held as endowment from the funds that are currently available for grants and administration.

Cash equivalents represent short-term investments with original maturities of 90 days or less, except for those short-term investments managed as part of long-term investment strategies.

Fixed assets are recorded at cost and are depreciated on a straight-line basis over the estimated life of the respective asset. Leasehold improvements are depreciated over the life of the respective improvement or the remaining term of the lease, whichever is shorter. Fixed assets are reported net of accumulated depreciation of $1,425,942 in 2008 and $1,107,366 in 2007.

Investment expenses include fees for bank trustees, investment managers, and custodians.

Grants and services to beneficiaries are expensed with approval of the Distribution Committee of The New York Community Trust (NYCT) or the Board of Directors of Community Funds, Inc. (CFI), and usually paid within one year.

The Trust has adopted a constant growth spending plan for many of its funds. This approach allows spending to increase at a steady rate within the confines of a floor, a ceiling and a cap. The spending plan is not applied to funds that are considered to be underwater, as defined by New York State law. At December 31, 2008 there were about 50 funds with a market value of approximately $17 million, and a deficiency of about $1.5 million, considered to be underwater.

Accounting estimates are an integral part of the consolidated financial statements prepared by management and are based upon management's current judgments. Actual results could differ from these estimates.

Certain 2007 amounts have been reclassified to conform to the 2008 presentation.

(3) Investments

Effective January 1, 2008, The Trust adopted Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 157 (SFAS No. 157) Fair Value Measurements. SFAS No. 157 defines fair value as the exchange price that would be received for an asset, or paid to transfer a liability, (an exit price) in the principal or most advantageous market for the asset or liability in an orderly transaction between market participants on the measurement date. This pronouncement does not require any new fair value measurements, but does establish a fair value hierarchy, which requires The Trust to maximize the use of observable inputs and minimize the use of unobservable inputs when measuring fair value. The three levels of the hierarchy are:

- Level 1 inputs are quoted prices in active markets for identical assets or liabilities.
- Level 2 inputs are inputs other than quoted prices included within Level 1 that are observable for the asset such as quoted prices for similar assets or liabilities.
- Level 3 inputs are unobservable inputs for the asset or liability.

The adoption of SFAS No. 157 did not have a material effect on the changes in net assets or the financial position of The Trust.

Most of The Trust's investments are in publicly traded securities or in commingled funds, including common trust funds that are invested in publicly traded securities. Fair value for these investments is based on quoted market prices and published net asset values. For other investments, fair value is determined based upon information provided by the fund managers, which is reviewed for reasonableness, independent appraisals and discounted cash flows.

NYCT investments are held in individual trusts at the bank designated by the donor in the instrument of gift. CFI invests for long-term growth of principal and income in real terms, consistent with a reasonable degree of risk. Donor advised funds that require a high degree of liquidity are invested in cash equivalents. The breakdown is as follows:

	NYCT	CFI	2008 Total	2007 Total
U.S. large cap equities	$ 257,719,865	$ 86,992,924	$ 344,712,789	$605,419,227
Fixed income	220,026,157	106,721,933	326,748,090	374,641,995

Certain of The Trust's investments in private equity and real estate involve future cash commitments which amount to approximately $46 million at December 31, 2008.

As of December 31, 2008 and 2007, 86.2% and 90.3% of investments, respectively, were readily marketable.

The following table presents The Trust's fair value hierarchy as defined by SFAS No. 157 at December 31, 2008:

	2008 Fair Value	Level 1	Level 2	Level 3

At December 31, 2008, 13.7% of The Trust's investment portfolio was classified as Level 3. Of this, approximately 47% of the underlying assets within these investments are liquid. Level 3 assets consist primarily of investments in hedge funds, private equity and certain real estate investments. The fair value of the Level 3 assets has been determined primarily through independent appraisals and input from fund managers utilizing market values of comparable companies and discounted cash flow projections. These valuations are reviewed for reasonableness by the management of The Trust.

The following table presents a reconciliation for all Level 3 assets measured at fair value for the period January 1, 2008 to December 31, 2008:

	Level 3 Assets
Fair value at January 1, 2008	$ 200,021,917

(4) Pension and Postretirement Medical Benefit Plans

The Trust administers a noncontributory defined benefit pension plan covering substantially all employees. Benefits are based on years of service and the employee's compensation during the five highest consecutive years during the last ten years of employment. The Trust also provides medical insurance benefits for its eligible retired employees.

In 2007, The Trust adopted Financial Accounting Standards Board Statement (SFAS) No. 158, Employers' Accounting for Defined Benefit Pension and Other Postretirement Plans. Obligations and funded status at December 31 are as follows:

	Pension benefits		Other benefits
	2008	2007	2008	2007
Benefit obligation	$ 13,422,596	$ 12,312,451	$ 2,617,039	$ 2,440,927
Fair value of plan assets	10,716,687	14,652,831	—	—
Funded status	$ (2,705,909)	$ 2,340,380	$ (2,617,039)	$ (2,440,927)
Benefit costs	$ 218,298	$ 248,727	$ 271,411	$ 285,812
Benefits paid	$ 240,662	$ 287,915	$ 50,945	$ 50,945
Plan contribution	$ —	$ 821,570	$ —	$ —

Amounts recognized in the statement of financial position related to the impact of SFAS No. 158 for the year ended December 31, 2008 consist of a decrease to the pension asset of $4,827,991 and a decrease to the accrued postretirement benefit obligation of $44,354. The incremental effect of applying SFAS No. 158 is a decrease to unrestricted net assets of $4,783,637.

The discount rates used to value the pension and other benefit plans range from 6.00% to 6.18%. The weighted average expected return on plan assets and rate of compensation increase for the calculation of the pension benefits is 8% and 4% as of December 31, 2008. The health care cost trend rate assumption for 2009 is 7.5% declining each year to 5% in 2014.

The pension plan is invested in a balanced portfolio of equity and fixed income securities. Annual projected benefit payments for the pension and other benefit plans are expected to average $732,000 and $108,000, through 2018, respectively.

The Trust also sponsors a defined contribution retirement plan for employees, in which contributions are based upon a specified percentage of salaries. The expense for this retirement plan was $522,372 and $478,659 in 2008 and 2007, respectively.

(5) Commitments

On March 30, 2004, The Trust entered into a lease agreement for office space expiring March 31, 2020. Future minimum rental payments are approximately $1.2 million in 2009, $1.3 million in 2010 through 2013, and a total of $9.1 million thereafter through 2020.

Rental expense is recognized on a straight-line basis, in accordance with SFAS No. 13, Accounting for Leases. The excess of recognized expense over actual rent payments as well as landlord provided improvements has been recorded as deferred rent credits. Rent expense for the years ended December 31, 2008 and 2007 amounted to $1,262,904 and $1,246,411, respectively.

Independent Auditors' Report

Distribution Committee of The New York Community Trust and Board of Directors of Community Funds, Inc.:

We have audited the accompanying consolidated statements of financial position of The New York Community Trust and Community Funds, Inc. (including its Long Island and Westchester Divisions) (collectively, The Trust) as of December 31, 2008 and 2007, and the related consolidated statements of activities and cash flows for the years then ended. These consolidated financial statements are the responsibility of The Trust's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these consolidated financial statements based on our audits.

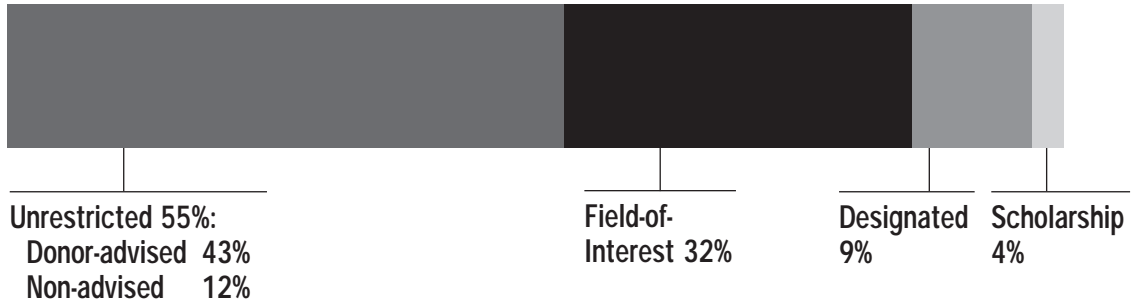

We conducted our audits in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes consideration of internal control over financial reporting as a basis for designing audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of The Trust's internal control over financial reporting. Accordingly, we express no such opinion. An audit also includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements, assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

In our opinion, the consolidated financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of The New York Community Trust and Community Funds, Inc. (including its Long Island and Westchester Divisions) as of December 31, 2008 and 2007, and the changes in their net assets and their cash flows for the years then ended in conformity with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles.
