WELCOME

The words on the cover of this report were written in 1940 by Ralph Hayes, the first president of The New York Community Trust. “In troubled times,” he continued, “[community foundation] resources have become healthy factors in their communities. Later, they will have still greater usefulness, when the long trek back toward sanity begins. In darkening times, a treasure chest is built against the needs of distant days.”

Today, a world war is not on the horizon, and the recession we’ve been through doesn’t compare to the Depression. But its fallout has been acutely felt in the City, and The Trust dug into its treasure chest to help New Yorkers who have been hit hard. This report reviews some of that work and what it accomplished.

Since 1924, we’ve been helping donors achieve their charitable goals and built a lasting resource for our grandchildren. We ended 2009 with assets of $1.74 billion, and made grants totaling $123 million. Whether you’re giving today or endowing a fund to solve problems we can’t now imagine, The Trust makes it easy to be a philanthropist. As you read about us, our donors, and the people and nonprofits we support, we hope you’ll join us.

Is the recession over yet? Sometimes, we feel like little kids in the back seat of the car, asking the same plaintive question again and again.

Economists and politicians tell us that we're on the road back. But is a jobless recovery really a recovery? The City's unemployment rate is higher than the nation's average. Experts predict that part of the financial sector's job loss is permanent. And as New Yorkers know full well, small business and entrepreneurs generate jobs, and credit is still tight.

Add to this Draconian State and City budget cuts in human services and the answer is, no, we're not there yet.

The Trust has been making grants for workforce development projects for some years. For example, health care is one sector that is growing, and we are now exploring the feasibility of working with the health care industry to project its labor needs and then training disadvantaged people to fill those jobs. In the meantime, there are families to feed and shelter. And it's no longer poor people alone who need help. As Donna Wall, of the Food Bank for New York City, says: “We’re getting reports from feeding programs all over the City that are seeing more people on line wearing suits, coming from interviews or part-time jobs. If they can reduce their food bills, they might be able to make mortgage payments or pay rent and keep their homes.”

The reports coming in from our grantees document the continuing pain from the financial meltdown. The poor have been devastated, the middle class is shrinking, and even those of us with jobs are fearful.

But we are guardedly optimistic that with New Yorkers’ ingenuity, the City will reinvent itself. And as always, we are buoyed by the extraordinary and compassionate efforts of our grantees in 2009 and by Trust donors, who continue to give generously. We are grateful to past New Yorkers, whose endowed funds have enabled The Trust to respond quickly to big challenges. And we are thankful to our board, whose dedication to our city and our institution guides us to do our best.

GIVING

Stretching the Safety Net

Rose-colored glasses are simply not chic. New Yorkers want the facts, please, and leave the sugarcoating to frailer mortals. We want to know exactly what the problem is, thank you, so dispense with the cheerleading.

So a theory of organizational development called Appreciative Inquiry is probably a foreign concept for many of us. It is described by one of its proponents as “the antithesis of problem-solving; [it is] appreciating people and processes that have worked and revitalizing the organization by emphasizing its many successes.”

As the City’s community foundation, The Trust supports New York nonprofits that daily confront many of our ills: failing schools, unaffordable housing, youth violence, inequitable health care—and on and on. Our grants are often for projects that attack problems by getting to their causes. It’s what foundations like to call strategic philanthropy, a systemic approach to resolving an issue. And often, we see impressive results: lives changed, neighborhoods reclaimed. And we do appreciate those successes. We celebrate them.

But while good people struggle, often for years, to make a significant dent in reducing inequality in America, there are good people who need help now. If there was ever a year that demanded an immediate response, it was 2009.

Nonprofits were besieged by families who had never before asked for help to pay for food and rent, fight predatory debt collectors, apply for public benefits, and deal with family violence and other problems endemic to hard times. With the poor getting poorer and the number of struggling New Yorkers rising, The

Preserving community:

Trust's board approved $7 million in safety net grants in early 2009 to eight seasoned agencies that we were confident would effectively distribute services and cash to the maximum number of people. And in April, we made grants to nonprofit management consulting groups to help agencies that had lost public and private funding, and were struggling themselves.

In the next few pages, you'll read about some of their work—and what they accomplished.

Stocking the Pantries

How to feed more hungry people

Groups that feed hungry New Yorkers started 2009 with a double whammy: steep declines in contributions and a rapid rise in the number of families needing help.

City Harvest is the country's first and New York's only food rescue organization. It collects tons of donated fresh fruits and vegetables and distributes it through a network of feeding programs; it also runs mobile food markets and nutrition classes in poor neighborhoods. "The consequences of the recession have been drastic in New York's poorer communities, where the same people facing lost jobs and wages are often those most likely to suffer from diet-related diseases like obesity and diabetes," says Jilly Stephens, the executive director of City Harvest. Last year, many of its feeding programs had to turn away hungry people; others were feeding an additional 4,000 each month. City Harvest was getting the produce; it just didn't have the resources to get it out to the programs. Our $200,000 grant got a lot of bang for the buck.

Stephens continues: "With The Trust grant, we were able to identify pockets of extremely high demand for emergency food and send four million additional pounds of produce to agencies with the capacity to move more fresh food. As a result, these programs were able to keep their shelves stocked with fresh food like carrots, apples, beets, cabbage, onions, and potatoes. We targeted agencies in high-need areas where increases in demand were as high as 70 percent.”

When the Landlord Knocks Getting Help with the Rent

In 2007, the Bridge Fund of New York noticed an uptick in the number of calls for help from homeowners and renters. The Fund, which has been giving loans, grants, and counseling to working-poor families facing foreclosure and eviction for 18 years, was seeing the beginning of the housing bust. With our $1 million grant in 2009, the Fund was able to make small loans and grants to 700 families, more than double the number in the prior year, and refer an additional 4,500 for other financial services and benefits.

Deanne Corley, who is disabled with arthritis, has lived in her Hollis, Queens apartment since 1998. Working since the age of 14, at 56 she now relies on modest disability payments. She applied for a Section 8 housing subsidy, which she finally got in 2007. The landlord refused to honor it until two years later, when the Human Rights Commission forced him to take it. “I owed almost $5,000 in rent. I could have been evicted, I could have been on the streets. In 2009, I called 311 and they gave me the phone number for the Bridge Fund. I met with Emma there, she was such a sweetheart, and she helped me.”

How to Avoid Foreclosure

When Agnes Jaiman bought her first house a few years ago, she was excited—and scared. “I realized that I was completely responsible,” she says. Agnes is a nursing student and medical assistant at a health clinic on Staten Island, where she lives. Two years after moving in, she refinanced to do some work on the house. It was an adjustable subprime loan at 9.7 percent. She started falling behind. She got a lot of advice and tried a number of programs, but became overwhelmed. She began to pack.

Avoiding eviction:
Deanne Corley was able to keep her Hollis apartment with help from the Bridge Fund.

Coping with stress:

José Javier Bosque, who runs the Southside Community Mission, gets help from the Mental Health Association for his clients, staff—and himself.

When she got a notice from the Supreme Court in 2008 notifying her of her right to a settlement conference—which had just become State law—she almost dismissed it as junk mail. Luckily, she showed it to a colleague who urged her to call one of the agencies listed on the notice. The first place she called was Legal Services NYC, whose talented attorneys, paralegals, and social and clerical workers have helped low-income New Yorkers navigate the civil legal system for more than 40 years. With a $1.2 million grant, it and its partner, the Legal Aid Society, created the Economic Crisis Legal Assistance Project and took on 950 additional cases. The project also trained all of our other safety-net grantees on legal issues related to the recession, including transitional benefits, unemployment insurance, and consumer debt.

Joseph Sant, a native of Seattle, was a newly minted lawyer from Georgetown University Law Center and Agnes became one of his first clients at Legal Services NYC's Staten Island office. "I was pretty green," he says dryly, "but this work is why I became a lawyer."

"He was there for me all the time," says Agnes. It took almost a year, but the case was settled. The principal was reduced significantly, and her interest rate cut to 4.7 percent, fixed for the life of the loan. Joseph notes that mortgage brokers get big commissions for putting people in higher priced loans—and that they're still at it.

Making Kids (and Parents) Happy Old institutions, new customers, same solutions

Miguel Pedraza-Cumba's pleasure is evident as he takes visitors around the Hudson Guild, a settlement house in Chelsea that opened in 1895 where he is deputy executive director. The Guild is a member of United Neighborhood Houses (UNH), which used a $1.3 million Trust grant to help its 37 members keep vital programs running. Nancy Wackstein, UNH president, says that settlement houses are "responding with intense focus to the needs of children, families, and older adults whose lives have become more difficult."

The Guild's bright, happy atmosphere is infectious. Nelly Lopez and Terise Haines work at the Guild and live in the neighborhood. Nelly is the administrative assistant in the School Bridge Program, where she's involved in the after-school and daycare programs; Terise is an assistant teacher of 4-year-olds. They love their jobs.

"I was born and raised here," says Nelly, whose four children have participated in Guild programs. She says she wouldn't work anywhere else. "I'm aware of how hard it is for a lot of parents. They rely on the Guild because child care is so expensive. They can't believe it costs nothing. 'Are you sure?' they keep asking. Young kids have so many issues, and it's a very long day for children because parents are working later. So we try to give them structure and make it fun."

For a while, Terise Haines took any job to make money. She'd dropped out of college, where she'd been studying computer science, when she got pregnant. But when her daughter was old enough to enroll in the Guild, she went back to school to become a teacher. "The Guild had an opening for a substitute teaching assistant, and that's how I started. It's a whole different place from home for the kids. They love to be involved and I love making things with them. Just what they learn from mixing colors is amazing." Being a full-time student, a worker, and a parent isn't easy. "You have to want to be here," says Terise with a big smile. "You can't do it for the paycheck."

Keeping Things in Balance Calling in help to deal with stress

"The legal immigrants in our community—mainly from the Dominican Republic—have been here for years, working in low-paying jobs, but working hard and able to get by. Today, they are losing their jobs: factories are shutting, and restaurants aren't hiring. The influx of young professionals has driven the rents up to the sky. Now, it's one apartment for two families, three families, four families, each room is a family. It's dangerous and the kids are growing up with no chance to become human beings. The frustration, the stress, and the violence in the families are a big problem. There is no future for them, and so they come here to apply for food stamps or find housing." Jose Javier Bosque is the executive director of the Southside Community Mission and this is how he describes what's going on in south Williamsburg, Brooklyn.

Trust program officers had met with staff at the Mental Health Association (MHA) and told them about the eight safety-net agencies we had funded; the Association proposed a program to help them. So Javier was relieved when MHA, with a grant from The Trust, offered to train him and his staff to recognize symptoms of mental distress and how to deal with them. "I have never gone to a workshop that was so well prepared. We learned how we could cope better with our clients, to keep them calm. We also learned to understand our own frustration, because we are also affected by what's going on. It's not easy, but I feel privileged to be in this position. The MHA program taught me how to try a different approach and deal with someone in a different way. We are also having meetings very frequently now as staff so we can nip problems in the bud, and make sure we are making time for communication."

"From Crisis to Collaboration"

Over the last year, The Trust has brought together the eight safety-net agencies and four nonprofit management consulting firms to learn from each other's experiences. They have done more than that. They now know each other and are working cooperatively, referring clients, offering services, and sharing expertise.

Chaumtoli Huq, litigation director of Manhattan Legal Services, puts it neatly: "We've gone from crisis to collaboration." New York still has a long way to go but, like Appreciative Inquiry practitioners, The Trust celebrates our grantees' accomplishments, and we are grateful that we can support their work. With the generosity of our donors, a dedicated board, and expert staff, we will continue to fund nonprofits that make a difference.

SELECTED GRANTS

To provide a full flavor of our grantmaking, we've given thumbnail sketches of selected grants in each of our program areas. We urge you to read our grants newsletters for a full view of our grants program.

Comunilife, to treat Latina adolescents who have attempted suicide.

MFY Legal Services, to improve conditions for poor, mentally ill people who live in boarding houses.

HOW TO APPLY FOR A GRANT

The Trust makes grants in four general areas: Children, Youth, and Families; Community Development and the Environment; Education, Arts, and Human Justice; and Health and People with Special Needs. We are committed to sticking with significant issues that may not lend themselves to quick or easy solutions, while remaining open to projects that tackle emerging problems and to organizations that may be new to us.

Grants are made primarily to nonprofit organizations located in the five boroughs of New York City. Our suburban divisions handle grants on Long Island and in Westchester (page 29). Grants to programs outside our area generally are from funds designated for specific charities or that have been made at the suggestion of donors.

Applicants should begin by requesting our “Guidelines for Grant Applicants” and one or more of the four brochures that describe in detail each of our grantmaking areas. We also suggest that you request copies of our grants newsletter to get a sense of the kinds of projects we currently fund. Please call our receptionist at (212) 686-0010, ext. 0, or visit our Web site, nycommunitytrust.org.

If, after you have read our guidelines, you believe that your proposed project meets our criteria, send us a cover letter along with a completed application form (enclosed with the guidelines), and a copy of the proposal—not more than 10 pages plus appendices. Include in your letter a brief summary of the proposal, the amount requested, and the results expected. We do not accept proposals sent by fax or e-mail.

Please note that we don't make grants to individuals and rarely for endowments, building campaigns, deficit financing, films, general operating support, or religious purposes.

We have no specific submission deadlines. Our Distribution Committee meets to consider grants five times annually, and grant applications are accepted throughout the year.

We'll let you know within two weeks that we have received your material. During the review process, Trust staff will analyze your proposal, determine if and how it fits into our grantmaking program, and check to see if there is money available in an appropriate fund.

We'll get in touch with you if we have further questions or need more information.

The Trust welcomes your application, but because we can't fund every proposal submitted to us, we urge you to send yours to several other funders as well.

The New York Community Trust offers donors with every kind of philanthropic interest an easy and flexible way to accomplish their charitable objectives and receive the maximum tax deduction allowed by law.

BECOMING A DONOR

TYPES OF FUNDS

An unrestricted fund is a good option for donors who want to be assured that their gift will always be used to meet vital needs and improve the quality of life in New York City. Our staff is expert in identifying community needs and the nonprofits best equipped to meet them.

In a field-of-interest fund, charitable giving is focused on issues of concern to the donor, such as child and family welfare, youth, education, human justice, conservation, or health policy. The Trust makes grants that meet current needs in the chosen fields. Field-of-interest funds advised by the donor can also be established.

A donor-advised fund is an unrestricted fund legally, but the donor recommends the organizations to receive grants. Although we cannot, by law, be bound by these recommendations, we take them very seriously and approve grants to recommended nonprofits that meet charitable standards for programmatic and financial soundness.

A designated fund is for donors who want to support specific organizations but recognize that the world may change. They establish a designated fund in The Trust rather than leave it directly to the charity to assure that their gift remains relevant over time and responsive to changing circumstances. (See page 24 for an explanation of the variance power.)

SETTING UP THE FUND

Each donor establishes a fund with a minimum of $5,000. Donors first decide what they want to accomplish with their philanthropy; our staff is happy to help clarify and refine goals. They then choose the name of the fund, typically using their own names or the names of individuals to be honored or memorialized. Donors who prefer anonymity can choose a general name.

There are at least three ways to establish a fund with us.

Give Now: You can set up a fund to support charities during your lifetime and endow it to continue your philanthropy for future generations. Many of our donors regularly add money to the funds they have established.

Give Later: Donors can set up funds through deferred-giving arrangements. A key feature of many estate plans is a tax advantage to you now for the commitment of a charitable gift later. Charitable Remainder Trusts, Charitable Lead Trusts, and gifts of life insurance or retirement plan assets can all be used.

Wills: After providing for personal bequests, you may include provisions for setting up a fund with us or adding to one you already have here. You will save estate taxes and ensure that the charitable work you care about will be continued.

TYPES OF ASSETS

Funds may be established with a variety of assets, including: cash, securities traded on major exchanges, closely held stock, mutual fund shares, retirement plan assets, real estate, interests in limited partnerships, and literature copyrights.

BONNIE CASHIN

As an investment advisor in the City, I was long familiar with The New York Community Trust but had no first-hand knowledge of its services. Then, in 2000, Bonnie Cashin, the iconic designer of American women's sportswear, died. In a brief will Bonnie named her good friend, Curtis Kellar, a lawyer, and me as co-executors of her estate and directed us to distribute the residuary to qualified charitable organizations.

For us, it was a tall order to make outright distributions so we considered establishing a private foundation to carry out her wishes. Given our professional backgrounds, we believed that we could not only easily manage the foundation but also do it at minimum cost. This would have pleased Bonnie, who in her many years of philanthropy, paid close attention to the expense ratios of charities she was interested in supporting. She would expect no less of us as fiduciaries of her estate.

And there's the rub. As mortals, Curtis and I realized that in time others would have to take on the foundation responsibility. We were concerned that even reasonable fees for investment management and custody services as well as necessary bookkeeping, auditing, consulting, and tax filing expenses would absorb a fair amount of the income that would otherwise be distributable to charity. Also, we were looking for a way to preserve in years to come the institutional legacy of Bonnie Cashin, and this would be difficult to accomplish with an endless succession of individual foundation trustees.

It happened that in 1988 Bonnie, frustrated with filing innumerable government forms, had turned over to the Community Trust a small fund she had created earlier to encourage innovative designers. Despite its modest size, she was impressed by the attention it received from the Trust's staff who, she said, "provided service the old-fashioned way, person to person." So it was probably inevitable that Curtis and I, after performing due diligence, chose the Community Trust as our proxy both to fulfill our fiduciary obligation and at the same time assure Bonnie's legacy.

Ten years have passed and The Trust has more than lived up to our expectations. We established a donor-advised fund and from it the staff efficiently pays out recommended grants, monitors the status of the recipients, and helps with information about potential grants. The Trust also takes care of all the administrative paperwork and stays on top of the ever-changing legal regulations governing charitable gifts. In addition, its newsletter provides timely and valuable knowledge about the charitable needs in our City's metropolitan area. Especially dear to my heart, The Trust has taken a conservative, long-term approach in investing the fund and that has been a winning strategy this past decade. And Bonnie would really be pleased to know these multiple services are performed at minimum cost.

At a time of economic distress, when people have lost confidence in many of our institutions, it is heartening to know that the Community Trust continues, as it has for 86 years, quietly helping generations of New Yorkers achieve and perhaps even surpass their philanthropic goals. —Henry W. Grady

Bob Kaufman: Director and donor

Bob Kaufman is a man on a mission—or, more accurately, many missions—from extending the benefits of the legal system to ensuring the equality of women in the military. A distinguished lawyer, gardener extraordinaire, and member of almost countless nonprofit boards and government task forces, his devotion to everything he does is legendary.

We know because Bob served on The New York Community Trust board for 23 years, the last decade as vice chairman. On the many occasions that Bob has been honored, nonprofit executives offer the same kudos for his attention to detail, wise counsel, and passion for their institutions' causes—with the subtle suggestion from each that it is Bob's favorite nonprofit, the one he really cares about. And they're all right. When Bob commits to something, no matter how many somethings there are, you get the full treatment: his intellect, his understanding, and his creativity.

But it is the totality of Bob's contributions to our City and our country that are truly impressive. Because he cares, he gives—generously—to the improvement of our judicial system, our military, our political process, our health care institutions, and our neighborhoods. And what's more, he has a great time doing it, energizing and inspiring us all with his enthusiasm and dedication.

When The Trust honored Bob in 2009, he said of his tenure on our board:

"Never in my wildest dreams would I have expected it to be the most rewarding, exciting, gratifying, interesting, fulfilling involvement that it turned out to be, with the most devoted, committed, and fascinating colleagues on the board and the staff."

The Trust is also proud to claim Bob as a donor. When his wife, Sheila Kelley Kaufman, died in 2009, he created a fund in her name to tackle homelessness. This was in addition to two other donor-advised funds he had established. In 1938, Bob had left Vienna on a Kindertransport; he used his award from the Holocaust Victim Asset litigation to fund one of them. The Trust will also receive part of his estate for an unrestricted fund to help meet the City's most critical needs.

We are glad to discuss proposed contributions with you. We cannot accept assets that are illiquid or that carry potential liability.

FUND ADMINISTRATION AND FEES

A fund established with us may be held in trust with one of our 11 trustees (see page 32), or it may be held by Community Funds, Inc., our not-for-profit corporation. Together, they are known as The New York Community Trust and operate with a single governing body. If a fund is set up in trust, the bank handles the investments. If it is set up in Community Funds, our distinguished Investment Committee oversees the performance of the outside portfolio managers. The determining factor is the inclination of the donor. The service we provide is the same.

The administrative fee charged to our funds is competitive. Please visit our Web site, nycommunitytrust.org, and click on Set up a Fund, to see current fees.

Funds that are held in trust are also charged a trustee's fee set by the bank. It may be negotiated between the bank and the donor at the inception of the fund, and varies from bank to bank.

The Internal Revenue Service has classified The New York Community Trust as “tax exempt” under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code; as a “publicly supported” organization under Section 170b(1)(A)(vi); and as “not a private foundation” under Section 509(a)(1). This status ensures donors the maximum tax benefit allowed by law. The Long Island Community Foundation and the Westchester Community Foundation (described on page 29) are divisions of Community Funds.

A FUND IN THE TRUST, A PRIVATE FOUNDATION—OR BOTH?

A fund in The Trust provides a very attractive alternative to establishing a private foundation. We are a public charity with the attendant tax advantages. A full-time professional staff takes care of all the administrative and grantmaking activities, eliminating the need to set up a separate institution, formulate policies, file innumerable forms, and monitor the status of grant recipients. Establishing a private foundation can take months and be costly; with The Trust, the legal apparatus is already in place, and creating a fund can take less than a day. For some people, a private foundation is the preferred option, but many donors with private foundations also have funds with us.

Often, the donor uses a fund here to support causes and nonprofits that are outside the general focus of the private foundation. And almost all want to increase the impact of their philanthropy by joining other generous New Yorkers who care about the City.

WHY THE TRUST

We offer substantial advantages over most commercial donor-advised funds: in-depth knowledge of the nonprofit community, the capacity to accept unusual gifts, smaller minimums, and lower fees. Because our business is philanthropy, we can help make sure that your money makes a difference.

FURTHER INFORMATION

Establishing a fund in The New York Community Trust for your client is a relatively straightforward process. Our booklet, Creating a Fund Here: Suggested Words and Procedures, provides all the relevant information: The Trust's tax classification letter, descriptive material on the different types of funds, and suggested language to help you draft instruments to provide for gifts to our organization. Call us to receive a copy or visit us online, at nycommunitytrust.org.

Donors have the option of setting up funds in The New York Community Trust with a bank as trustee or in our not-for-profit corporate affiliate, Community Funds, Inc. The organizations share a governing board and staff, and file a single tax return with the Internal Revenue Service.

THREE IMPORTANT FACTS

- We are unable to accept a fund unless its terms have been reviewed by us and found acceptable. It is particularly helpful if we review the language before the instrument is executed to ensure that we can meet the donor's purpose.
- For funds held in trust as part of

The New York Community Trust, a co-trustee is not permitted.

- All our funds enjoy an important advantage: If a change of circumstances makes literal compliance with the terms of the gift instrument "unnecessary, undesirable, impractical, or impossible," our governing body is able to vary them. Donors are assured that their gifts will never become obsolete; they will remain useful to the community in perpetuity.

CREATING A FUND IN

THE NEW YORK COMMUNITY TRUST

The Resolution and Declaration of Trust Creating "The New York Community Trust" (the R&D) is a complete trust instrument. It sets out in detail the powers and duties of the Trustee Bank and the Distribution Committee. In order to establish a fund in The Trust, the founding document—whether for a bequest or a gift during lifetime—must incorporate the R&D by reference. An advantage of The New York Community Trust is that it is not a private foundation subject to certain requirements, and the separate funds that constitute The New York Community Trust are component funds of a public charity, not private foundations. It is important, therefore, that an instrument designed to create a new component fund in The Trust adhere strictly to the provisions of the R&D; please call us for a copy.

CREATING A FUND IN

COMMUNITY FUNDS, INC.

Community Funds is a New York State not-for-profit corporation. As with a fund in The New York Community Trust, a fund established in Community Funds becomes part of a public charity, and is not regarded as a private foundation. The fund is held and administered pursuant to the provisions of the New York Not-for-Profit Corporation Law, subject to the Certificate of Incorporation and By-Laws of Community Funds. Please call us for a copy.

CREATING A FUND IN OUR LONG

ISLAND OR WESTCHESTER DIVISION

Because the Long Island Community Foundation and the Westchester Community Foundation are divisions of Community Funds, donors have the same options described above.

The governing body consists of 12 members who serve as the Distribution Committee of The New York Community Trust and as the Board of Directors of Community Funds, Inc. It is their responsibility to oversee our organization's operations and grantmaking.

Six members are nominated by civic authorities representing the public: one by the Mayor of the City of New York; one by the Chief Judge of the United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit; one by the Chairman of the Partnership for New York City and Chamber of Commerce; one by the Chairman of Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts; one by the President of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York; and one by the President of the New York Academy of Medicine. The Distribution Committee nominates five members, and the President of The Trust is a member by reason of office.

Members serve without compensation. They are selected for their judgment, integrity, and understanding of philanthropic needs. The Committee meets every two months throughout the year; subcommittees meet on a regular basis.

The Finance and Audit Committee monitors the financial operations of The Trust. The Investment Committee (see page 43) establishes asset allocation guidelines, recommends investment advisors and vehicles, and monitors investment performance. The Fund Purposes and Suggestion Review Committee assures that the provisions and intent of each donor's philanthropy are honored, and reviews grants suggested by donors to ensure that they meet our charitable guidelines.

SUBURBAN DIVISIONS

With the belief that grantmaking is most effective when it is done locally, The Trust established divisions that reach out to the greater metropolitan area: the Westchester Community Foundation, founded in 1975, and the Long Island Community Foundation, founded in 1978.

Each is guided by a board of advisors composed of community leaders and staffed by people expert in grantmaking and donor service. As part of The Trust, Long Island and Westchester enjoy our investment management, legal, financial, and accounting services.

In 1923, the banks of New York City envisioned the type of philanthropic organization that could best meet the changing needs of this community.

It would be set up to give wealthy people and those of moderate means an equal opportunity to accomplish their philanthropy within a flexible framework. The charitable funds they created would be permanently secure. The organization's governing body—an impartial and changing committee of New York citizens chosen for their understanding of philanthropic needs—would oversee the selection of charitable beneficiaries.

This was the beginning of The New York Community Trust. Today eleven banks and trust companies have adopted the Resolution and Declaration of Trust Creating "The New York Community Trust." The representatives of these financial institutions constitute the Trustees' Committee, and each bank is authorized to receive funds in trust for The New York Community Trust.

(1) Organization

The New York Community Trust and Community Funds, Inc. (including its Long Island and Westchester Divisions) (The Trust) are community foundations created to build permanent charitable endowments for the areas they serve. The Trust, as the consolidated foundations are hereinafter referred to, is tax exempt under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code (the Code) and has been determined not to be a private foundation under Section 509(a)(1) of the Code. The Trust administers nearly 2,000 individual charitable funds, each established with an instrument of gift describing either the general or specific purposes for which grants are to be made, usually from income only, but in some cases from principal.

(2) Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Accounting standards provide that if the governing body of an organization has the ability to remove a donor restriction, the contributions should be classified as unrestricted net assets. However, under New York State law and The Trust's governing instruments, the assets are held as endowment funds until such time (if ever) as the governing body deems it prudent and appropriate to expend some part of the principal or appreciation. Accordingly, the consolidated financial statements classify all net assets as unrestricted, but segregate the portion that is held as endowment from the funds that are currently available for grants and administration.

Cash equivalents represent short-term investments with original maturities of 90 days or less, except for those short-term investments managed as part of long-term investment strategies.

Fixed assets are recorded at cost and are depreciated on a straight-line basis over the estimated life of the respective asset. Leasehold improvements are depreciated over the life of the respective improvement or the remaining term of the lease, whichever is shorter. Fixed assets are reported net of accumulated depreciation of $1,705,981 in 2009 and $1,425,942 in 2008.

Investment expenses include fees for bank trustees, investment managers, and custodians.

Grants and services to beneficiaries are expensed with approval of the Distribution Committee of The New York Community Trust (NYCT) or the Board of Directors of Community Funds, Inc. (CFI), and usually paid within one year.

The Trust has adopted a constant growth spending plan for many of its funds. This approach allows spending to increase at a steady rate within the confines of a floor, a ceiling and a cap. The spending plan is not applied to funds in CFI that are considered to be underwater, as defined by New York State law. At December 31, 2009 there were about 10 funds with a market value of approximately $3.6 million, and a deficiency of about $0.2 million, considered to be underwater.

Accounting estimates are an integral part of the consolidated financial statements prepared by management and are based upon management's current judgments. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Certain 2008 amounts have been reclassified to conform to the 2009 presentation.

(3) Investments

Accounting Standards Codification Topic 820 (ASC 820), Fair Value Measurements and Disclosures, defines fair value as the exchange price that would be received for an asset, or paid to transfer a liability (an exit price), in the principal or most advantageous market for the asset or liability in an orderly transaction between market participants on the measurement date. This pronouncement does not require any new fair value measurements, but does establish a fair value hierarchy, which requires The Trust to maximize the use of observable inputs and minimize the use of unobservable inputs when measuring fair value. The three levels of the hierarchy are:

- Level 1 inputs are quoted prices in active markets for identical assets or liabilities.
- Level 2 inputs are inputs other than quoted prices included within Level 1 that are observable for the asset such as quoted prices for similar assets or liabilities.
- Level 3 inputs are unobservable inputs for the asset or liability.

Accounting Standards Update 2009-12 (ASU-2009-12) Investments in Certain Entities That Calculate Net Asset Value Per Share (or Its Equivalent), which amends ASC 820, allows the Trust, as a practical expedient, to estimate the fair value of investments in investment companies for which the investment does not have a readily determinable fair market value using net asset value.

Most of The Trust's investments are in publicly traded securities or in commingled funds, including common trust funds, which are invested in publicly traded securities. Fair value for these investments is based on quoted market prices and observable net asset values. The Trust also invests in hedge funds, private equity and certain real estate investments. The fair value of these investments has been determined primarily through independent appraisals using an income based approach and the net asset values provided by the fund managers utilizing quoted market prices of the underlying securities, market values of comparable companies and discounted cash flow projections. These valuations are reviewed for reasonableness by management of The Trust.

The following tables present The Trust's fair value hierarchy as defined by ASC 820 at December 31, 2009 and 2008 respectively:

	2009 Fair value	Level 1	Level 2	Level 3

The Trust's alternative investments include:

Equity Oriented Hedge Funds - The principal investment is a fund of hedge funds that mainly take both long and short positions in equities. The long positions may be leveraged. The funds may also employ options, warrants, futures, commodities, fixed income securities, currency forward contracts and other financial instruments. A second holding is a direct investment in a hedge fund that takes long and short positions in commodity-based marketable equities, primarily in the energy sector.

Absolute Return Hedge Funds - These consist of three multi-strategy funds that attempt to generate consistent positive returns by focusing on opportunities that are not correlated to the returns of the overall markets. The main strategies include merger arbitrage and other event-driven investments, distressed securities and securities of companies undergoing various types of restructurings, and convertible and capital structure arbitrage. Some funds also invest in leveraged loans, real estate equity and debt, and private equity.

Real Estate - This includes an investment in a fund that holds properties that are net leased to tenants with below investment grade credit ratings. The fund's holdings are analogous to high-yield bonds collateralized with real estate. As the result of a gift, there is also an investment in a limited liability company that owns land in New York City leased to the owner of a high rise office building.

Private Equity - Although the investments are largely in funds of funds, they also include two direct investments in private equity partnerships. Both the funds of funds and the two partnerships focus on buyouts – primarily of midcap companies. Three of the funds of funds also have a small allocation to venture capital. In addition, The Trust through gifts acquired interests in a limited partnership investment holding company and a limited liability company. The assets of the LP holding company consist almost entirely of publicly traded common stock in one company.

The Trust's investments in hedge funds may be redeemed at the net asset value as of the measurement date and at least annually thereafter, in certain cases more frequently. Advance notice of 30-90 days is required to redeem these investments. As such, ASU 2009-12 states that these investments should be categorized as Level 2 assets.

Capital invested in Level 3 assets is returned as the underlying investments are liquidated. The liquidation will occur over the term of the individual investment with the termination of these investments scheduled at various times between 2013 and 2019. Certain of The Trust's investments in private equity and real estate involve future cash commitments which amount to approximately $40 million at December 31, 2009.

The following table presents a reconciliation for all Level 3 assets measured at fair value for the period January 1 to December 31:

(4) Pension and Postretirement Medical Benefit Plans

The Trust administers a noncontributory defined benefit pension plan covering substantially all employees. Benefits are based on years of service and the employee's compensation during the five highest consecutive years during the last ten years of employment. The Trust also provides medical insurance benefits for its eligible retired employees. Obligations and funded status at December 31 are as follows:

	Pension benefits		Postretirement medical benefits
	2009	2008	2009	2008
Benefit obligation	$ 15,322,334	$ 13,422,596	$ 2,490,224	$ 2,617,039
Fair value of plan assets	12,982,458	10,716,687	—	—
Funded status	$ (2,339,876)	$ (2,705,909)	$ (2,490,224)	$ (2,617,039)
Benefit costs	$ 1,080,700	$ 218,298	$ 215,959	$ 271,411
Benefits paid	$ 461,013	$ 240,662	$ 62,279	$ 50,945
Plan contribution	$ —	$ —	$ —	$ —

The accumulated amounts not yet recognized as a component of net periodic benefit cost was $4,448,461 and $220,504 at December 31, 2009 for the pension and postretirement medical plans, respectively. The estimated amount that will be amortized into net periodic benefit cost in 2010 is $226,613 and $28,009, respectively.

The discount rates used to value the pension and postretirement medical benefit plans range from 6.00% to 6.18%. The weighted average expected return on plan assets and rate of compensation increase for the calculation of the pension benefits is 8% and 4% as of December 31, 2009. The health care cost trend rate assumption for 2010 is 8.3% declining each year to 5.9% in 2015.

The pension plan is invested in a balanced portfolio of equity and fixed income securities. Annual projected benefit payments for the pension and post-retirement medical benefit plans are expected to average $874,000 and $108,000, through 2019, respectively.

The Trust also sponsors a defined contribution retirement plan for employees, in which contributions are based upon a specified percentage of salaries. The expense for this retirement plan was $538,166 and $522,372 in 2009 and 2008, respectively.

(5) Commitments

On March 30, 2004, The Trust entered into a lease agreement for office space expiring March 31, 2020. Future minimum rental payments are approximately $1.3 million in 2010 through 2014, and a total of $7.7 million thereafter through 2020.

Rental expense is recognized on a straight-line basis, in accordance with ASC 840, Accounting for Leases. The excess of recognized expense over actual rent payments as well as landlord provided improvements has been recorded as deferred rent credits. Rent expense for the years ended December 31, 2009 and 2008 amounted to $1,321,980 and $1,262,904, respectively.

(6) Subsequent Events

The Trust adopted ASC 855, Subsequent Events, and evaluated its December 31, 2009 consolidated financial statements for subsequent events through May 12, 2010, the date the consolidated financial statements were available to be issued. The Trust is not aware of any subsequent events which would require recognition or disclosure in the consolidated financial statements.

Independent Auditors' Report

Distribution Committee of The New York Community Trust and Board of Directors of Community Funds, Inc.:

We have audited the accompanying consolidated statements of financial position of The New York Community Trust and Community Funds, Inc. (including its Long Island and Westchester Divisions) (collectively, The Trust) as of December 31, 2009 and 2008, and the related consolidated statements of activities and cash flows for the years then ended. These consolidated financial statements are the responsibility of The Trust's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these consolidated financial statements based on our audits.

We conducted our audits in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes consideration of internal control over financial reporting as a basis for designing audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of The Trust's internal control over financial reporting. Accordingly, we express no such opinion. An audit also includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements, assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

In our opinion, the consolidated financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of The New York Community Trust and Community Funds, Inc. (including its Long Island and Westchester Divisions) as of December 31, 2009 and 2008, and the changes in their net assets and their cash flows for the years then ended, in conformity with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles.
